

Projects that received funding from the open humanitarian call 2023

Danish Red Cross, together with Aarhus University and Canadian Red Cross Society, is receiving DKK 4.9 million for the project ResilienceNCD: Strengthening NCD Care Resilience in Disaster-Prone municipality of Western Nepal. The project will take place in Nepal.
DanChurchAid is receiving DKK 5 million for the project Easing and de-risking transition to climate resilient food production for enhanced self- reliance in humanitarian contexts. The project will take place in Lebanon, Kenya, and Nepal.
Oxfam Denmark is receiving DKK 4.5 million for the project Improving Gender Sensitive and local NGO engagement in IPC processes and other food security analyses. The project will take place in Lebanon.
International Rescue Committee is receiving DKK 4.9 million for the project Pioneering research on self-care for noncommunicable diseases. The project will take place in Bangladesh and Nigeria.
Norwegian Refugee Council is receiving DKK 5 million for the project Hydroponics in Niger: A Path of Research and Innovation for Agricultural Progress. The project will take place in Niger.
ADRA Denmark, together with ADRA Uganda, will receive DKK 5 million for the project Resilience Enhancement for Adapting Sustainable Livelihoods (REAL). The project will take place in Uganda.
Dignity (Danish Institute Against Torture), together with Trans-cultural Psychosocial Organization Uganda, will receive DKK 2.3 million for the project Tracing the pathways: Long-term Impacts of MHPSS & economic empowerment interventions among refugees and vulnerable host populations. The project will take place in Uganda.
SOS Children's Villages will receive DKK 4.6 million for the project Unveiling the potential of climate-smart agriculture in restoring food security and livelihoods in displacement affected communities. The project will take place in Somalia.
UNICEF Denmark is receiving DKK 5 million for the project Building Climate Resilient Health Systems for Vulnerable Populations in Disaster-prone Regions in India. The project will take place in India.
DanChurchAid is receiving DKK 5 million for the project Exploring the potential for climate responsive and locally led production of novel & super foods for improved nutrition in protracted crisis contexts. The project will take place in Kenya.